

Air Grill

Abstract

The present invention refers to an improvement in the air grill for heating/cooling air conditioning systems. Preferably, the air grill comprises a constitutive layer or laminar layer which has dotted lines made with die on its surface.